Ethnomathematics: Pushing Back Against K-12 Traditional School Mathematics

Saraswati Noel, UW Seattle

Secondary Math Ed Ph.D. candidate

RESCHEDULED DUE TO SNOW

This workshop aims to push back against current euro-centric forms of mathematics and explores the concept of ethnomathematics - the relationship between math and culture. Participants will engage in mathematical activities that center family, community, indigenous and ancestral knowledge and learn about current efforts to bring Ethnic Studies curriculum to mathematics classrooms in Seattle Public Schools to connect and improve academic success for all students.

DIRECTIONS:

Bishop Blanchet HS is located at 8200 Wallingford Ave N in Seattle.

I-5 traveling either direction:

- Take the 85th Street Exit and proceed on 85th.
- Turn left at the first traffic light onto Wallingford.
- Take the first left into the school parking lot.
- We will be in Haggerty Hall - the building closest to 85th.

Saraswati Noel is a former math educator at Seattle World School, which primarily serves recent immigrants to the US. She currently is getting her Ph.D. in Math Education at the University of Washington. Saraswati is passionate about immigrant rights and is committed to diversifying educational materials to create a space where all voices are able to contribute to the growth and development of public pedagogy.

5 pm Social Time: Come and play math games! We'll have Tiny Poka Dots and Prime Climb (Math4Love) and Election Night and Play Smart Dice ((Semper Smart Games) as well as others!

What is PSCTM?

The Puget Sound Council of Teachers of Mathematics was founded by math educators to encourage continual professional growth among local mathematics teachers. The organization sponsors three dinners during the year: fall, winter, and spring. Dinner presentations strive to provide inspiring and innovative ideas and activities grades K-12.

What are the benefits of joining PSCTM?

- Reduced rate at the October NW Math Conference each year.
- PSCTM Newsletter.
- Opportunities to share ideas, network, and socialize with other dedicated mathematics teachers.
- Notification of all gatherings, a reduced rate for dinners.
- Eligible for Eldon Egbers NW Conference Scholarship
- Chances to win the $100 Penewell door prize!
- Incredible speakers to invigorate your teaching and deepen your mathematical understanding.
