From the Superintendent ...

We are blessed by the contributions and the partnership of the Fulcrum Foundation. Often described as dance partners, similar to Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. We collaborate, and coordinate to provide services to our schools, students, teachers and administrators. As a fellow principal at the time of Fulcrum's inception, I remember back, when Fr. Rowan and Joe Womac introduced this idea to us all. Some of us were skeptical. Survivalist thoughts started to take root in my brain; how could our school give up the names of our key donors for the good of all our schools. I worried that there would never be enough to fill the bucket. Scarcity versus abundance...

And yet, and yet... Look what has been accomplished! Take a look at the most recent publication of the Fulcrum Foundation Community Report! Tuition assistance, school partnership grants, and building leadership capacity. Fulcrum has touched all the important building blocks that support our schools! Just this year alone, over 4.8 million "invested" in our schools – in so many lives! I thank Julie Coleman for her willingness to guide Fulcrum through the "interim" time. She did not respond to her position as an interim - Julie was all in! We now prepare to welcome Vivian Shannon as the new Executive Director. She will bring new insights to the already highly capable team. I look forward to working with her to benefit all our schools.

Most importantly, I thank Tony and Michelle Audino! Tony and Michelle recently received the National Catholic Education Association's Seton Award for "...committing their lives to ensuring that an excellent Catholic education would be accessible to all." We all know that their joint efforts and the direction that each gives to the Fulcrum Foundation Board have allowed us all to build a better future for our schools. We, in the Office for Catholic Schools, know that we are blessed and very honored to work alongside the Audinos and the Fulcrum Foundation team! Congratulations Tony and Michelle!
