

FREE TESTING for SCHOOL-AGE CHILDREN

The University of Washington's College of Education invites you and your child to participate in the School Psychology psychoeducational assessment program.

Children in Grades 5 through 12 will participate in testing in February 2021 with two 90-minute in-person sessions. Parents will attend two HIPAA-compliant Zoom meetings.

Under licensed psychologist/faculty supervision, graduate students administer assessments designed to identify strengths, weaknesses, and learning differences that may influence your child's academic performance.

Recommendations for supporting your child's learning are provided.

For more information or to apply for participation, please call the School Psychology Clinic at (206) 543-4970.

Confidentiality is strictly enforced for all family and student information.
